The Purple Star

The Purple Star

"This gallery was printed in six by two, instead of six by one. Should I make this head eighteen by one centered or twenty-four by two? Italics?" These are only a few of the problems that arise the day the paper is to be laid out. There is much more to The Purple Star than meets the eye. The print size, column width, and headline type for each article must be decided. Each editor must have an idea what he wants his page to look like, so he knows exactly how each article should be printed.

Six issues were printed this year. A special six page edition appeared at holiday time with two pages devoted to Vietnam and a pictorial insert. The last issue was printed, as is the tradition, by the juniors as a souvenir to the graduating seniors.

The Star's main project was the selling of "goodies" after school and at basketball games.

Any student who has earned a varsity letter in any school sport is eligible for entrance. Upon receiving a letter the student should write a letter to an officer of the club, and he will be recognized as a member at once. The club's main source of income is through the selling of candy during the holiday season. The money obtained is put in the club's treasury for purchasing various equipment needed by the school.

Yearbook

"Re-do that layout! Crop that picture! Write 350 words for copy!" These are a few of the commands that could be heard being directed to yearbook staff members in Room 214 after school every day. Drawing and redrawing layouts, writing and typing copy, taking and arranging pictures, selling ads and collecting money, are a small portion of the many tasks involved in producing a successful yearbook, and a few of the many jobs accomplished by the staff members in putting out the Phoenix. Under the diligent direction of co-editors, Anita Quance and Dennis Barron, and the invaluable guidance and assistance of adviser, Nicholas F. Pascale, Jr., cooperation in obtaining pictures and meeting deadlines was achieved in order to compile the 1966 Phoenix.

The dedication of the yearbook and awards to the staff were presented at the annual Literary Banquet held on May 24.

Athletics

Developing into a very determined and spirited team, the Phoenixville Phantomettes finished their 1965 season with an impressive record of 6 wins, 1 loss, and 2 ties.

Head coach for the fourth year, Miss Mary Lozier and assistant coach, Miss Sandra Arrell, piloted the team through the successful season.

Though the girls did not remain undefeated, the team displayed increasing skill with each game.

Returning lettermen to the Varsity Squad were seniors Sheila Ford-Bey, Sissy Travis-Bey, Janice Splawn, Candy McAvoy, and sophomore Cindy Lee. Other seniors and members contributing their talents to the Varsity Squad were Janice Trinley, Barbara Filipiack, Darrah Gustafson, Linda Blizzard, Gail Hagy, Ranell Winter, and Glee Fakete. These people helped to bring the Varsity Squad to the impressive record.

The Junior Varsity Squad had the athletic abilities of Connie Swier, Barbara Stafford, Barbara Townsend, Marilyn Burton, Lynn Miller, Patsy King, Ann Jacob, Sue Conn, Miriam Brown, Judy Hopkins, Sue Gerstenberger, Tina Oleson, Linda Somerville, Cindy McFarland, and Charlotte Bryant to make their season as successful as it was.

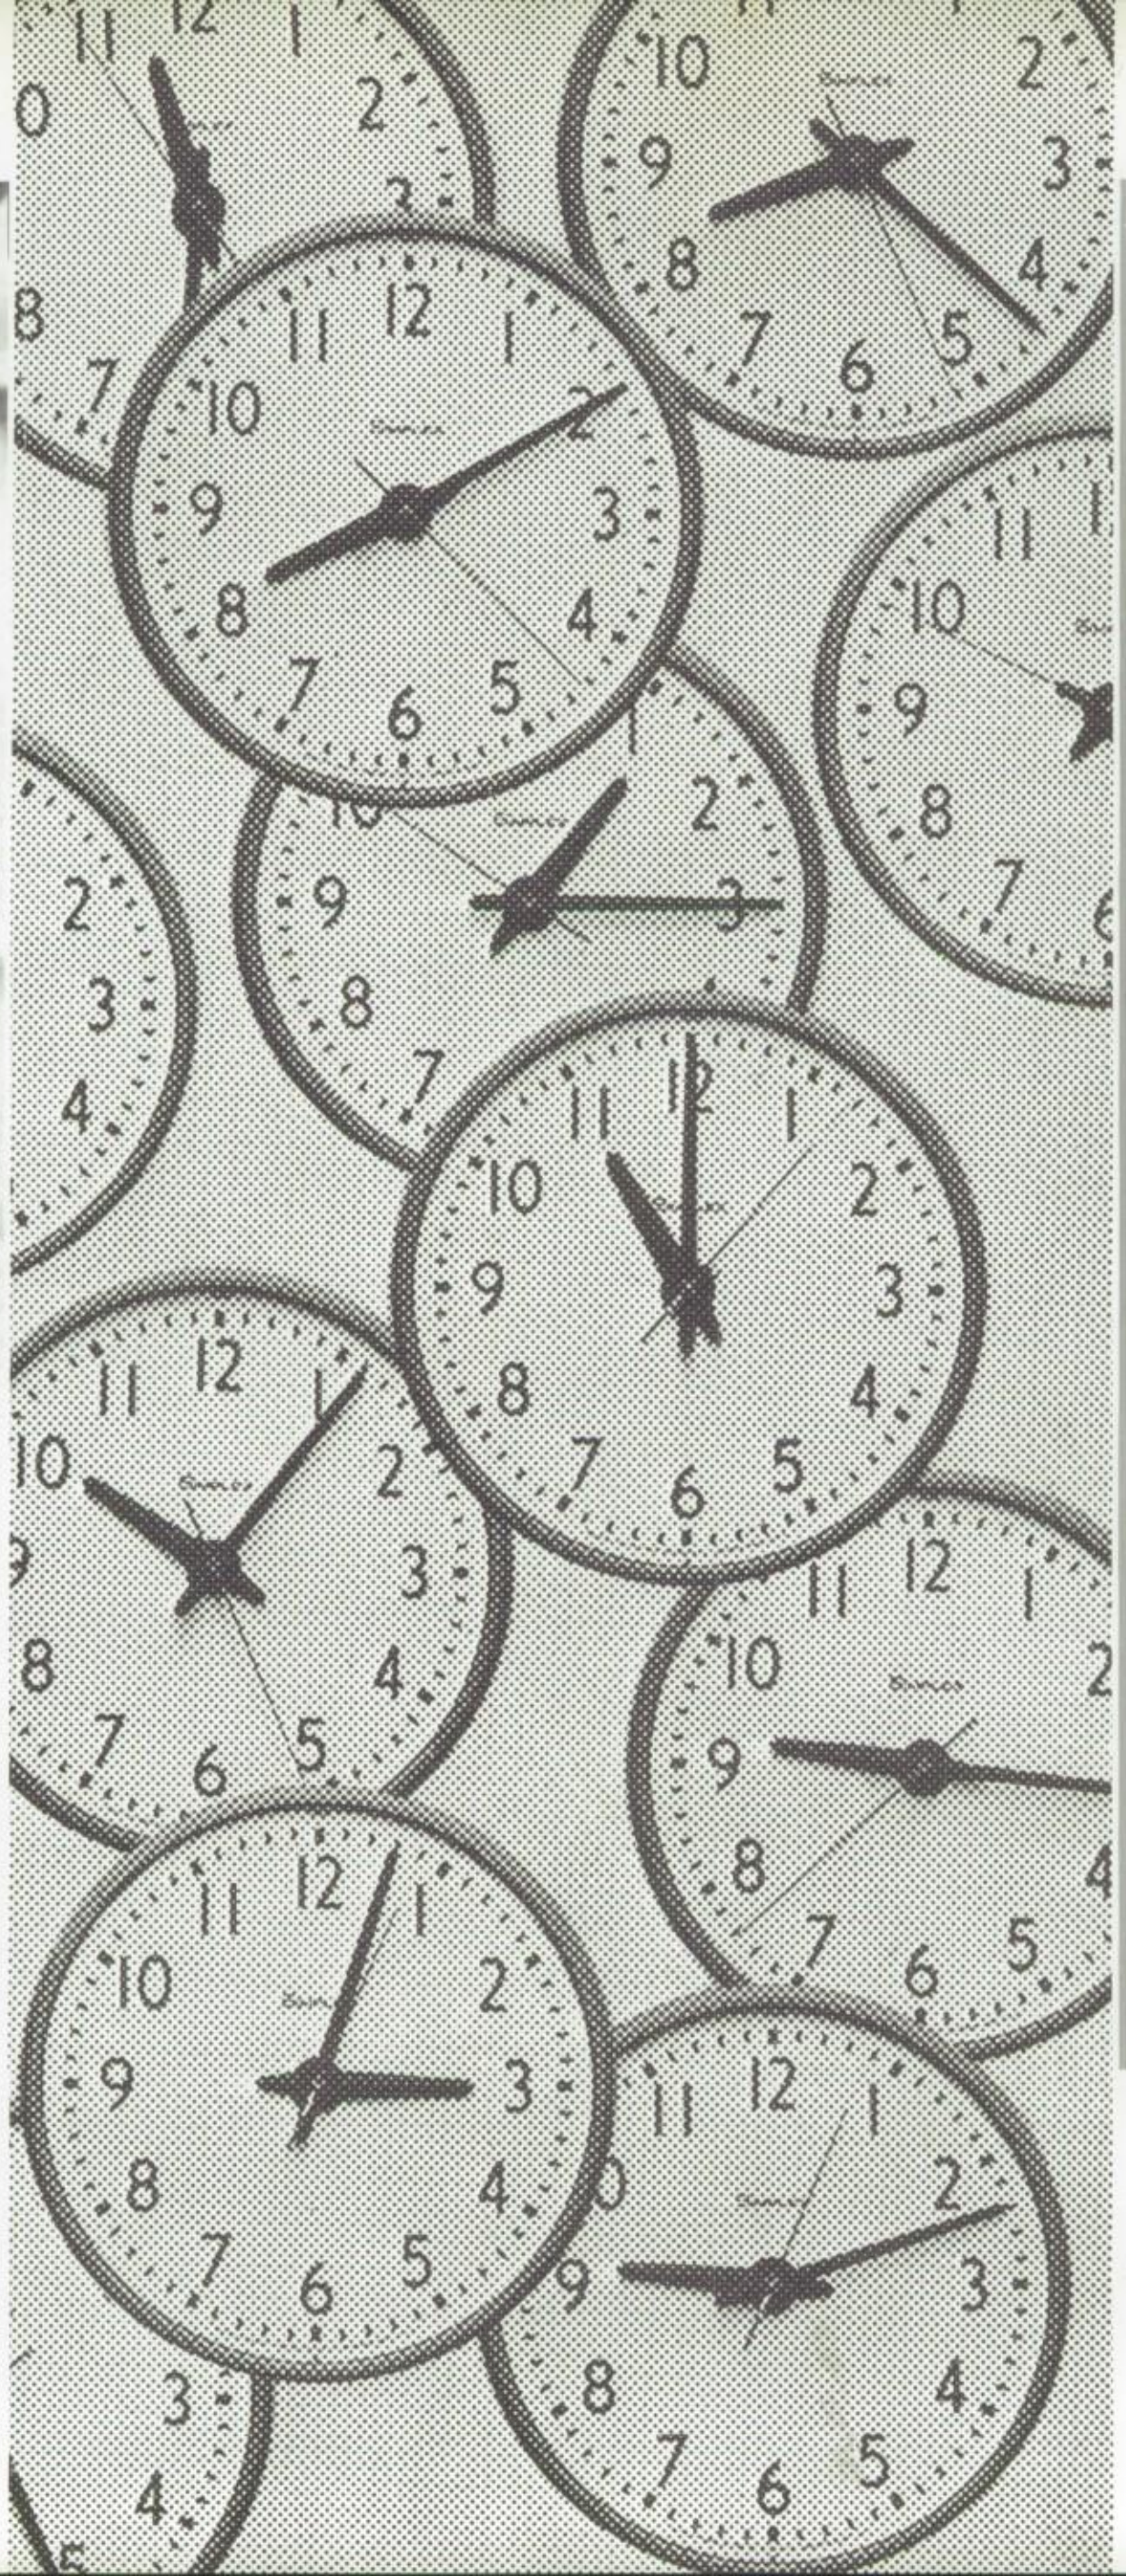
Senior Play

Weeks of hard work culminated in the Senior Class presentation of "The Final Dress Rehearsal" and "If Men Play Cards As Women Do" on Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20, in the high school auditorium. Both plays were one-act comedies.

This year's play was under the skilled direction of Miss Linda Kolts. Assisting Miss Kolts were Miss Judith Fox, Mr. John Di Guiseppe, and Mr. Earl Mayberry. With the help of these people the Class of '66 was able to deliver a fine performance.



(LEFT, TOP TO BOTTOM) *"Peek a boo. I see you," quips Mr. Epprecht. "Who said I don't have the touch of a safe cracker," ponders Etta Miller. (ABOVE) "That bell should have rung hours ago," says Marty Kaba.

"And, departing, leave behind us footprints in the sands of time."
So too, we, the graduating class will leave our mark of accomplishments within P.A.H.S.'s halls of education.
To keep the memory of school activities, the work and the fun, forever fresh in the minds of the Class of '66, this book has been created. Each student, from the most outstanding scholar to the most insignificant of class members, has had part in one or more of these school activities. They are recorded here so that the memory of them might never be dimmed.
In this area of the Great Society we have witnessed many changes in today's fast moving world. To meet the challenges of the times, we must rely on our past twelve years of experience and schooling. This preparation has been afforded us by such scholastic tools as up-to-date teaching methods and modern facilities.
Our class has chosen "time" as the theme for this yearbook. Time has been defined as that duration allotted to a specific purpose. Our purpose has been to prepare to face the outside world which we will enter. The past dozen years has served as the beginning of this journey into the future.
Time goes by so slowly, but time can do so much. To inspire the future citizens, homemakers, businessmen and vocationals who are incorporated in the class of '66, this book has been composed. Each one of us, no matter how successful, will find ourselves downhearted or discouraged at one time or another in the future. That they might look at this book and receive inspiration from its youthful optimism, courage and light-heartedness is the hope of those who have compiled the following pages.

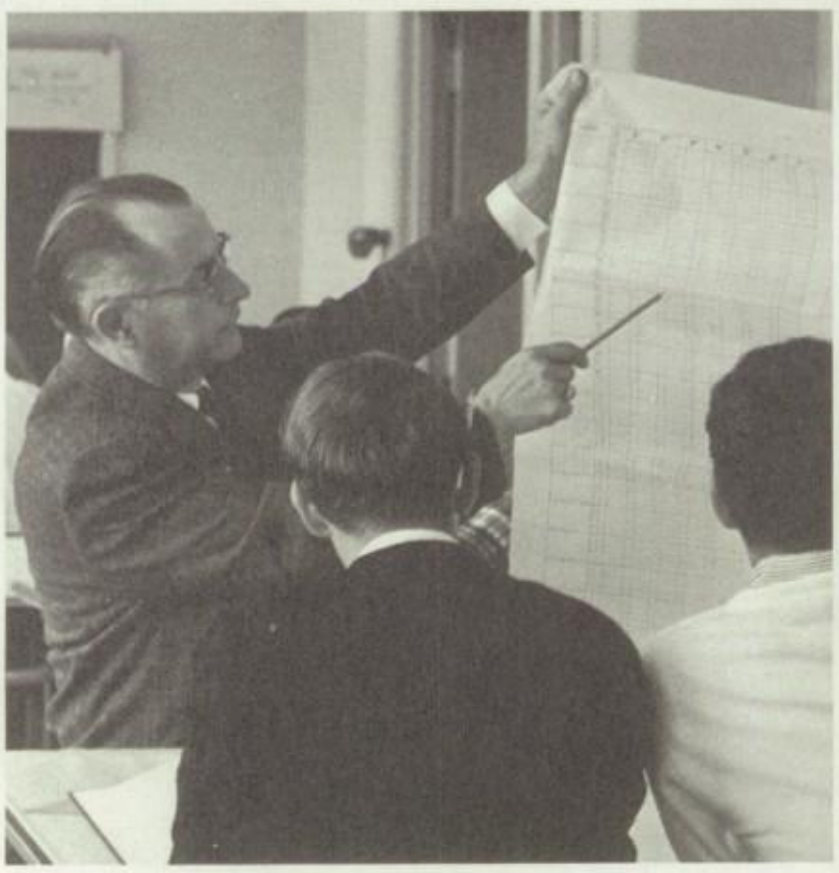
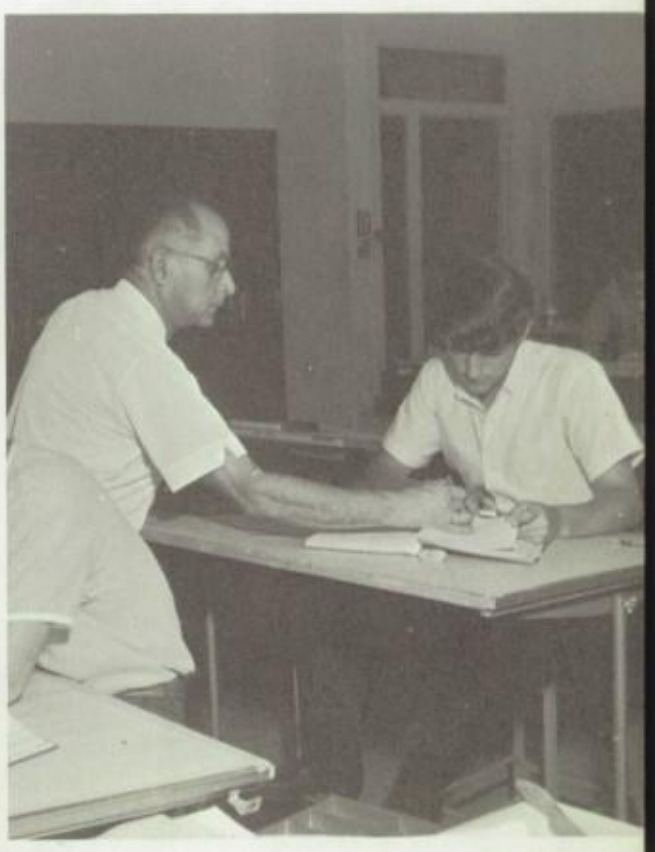
Dedication

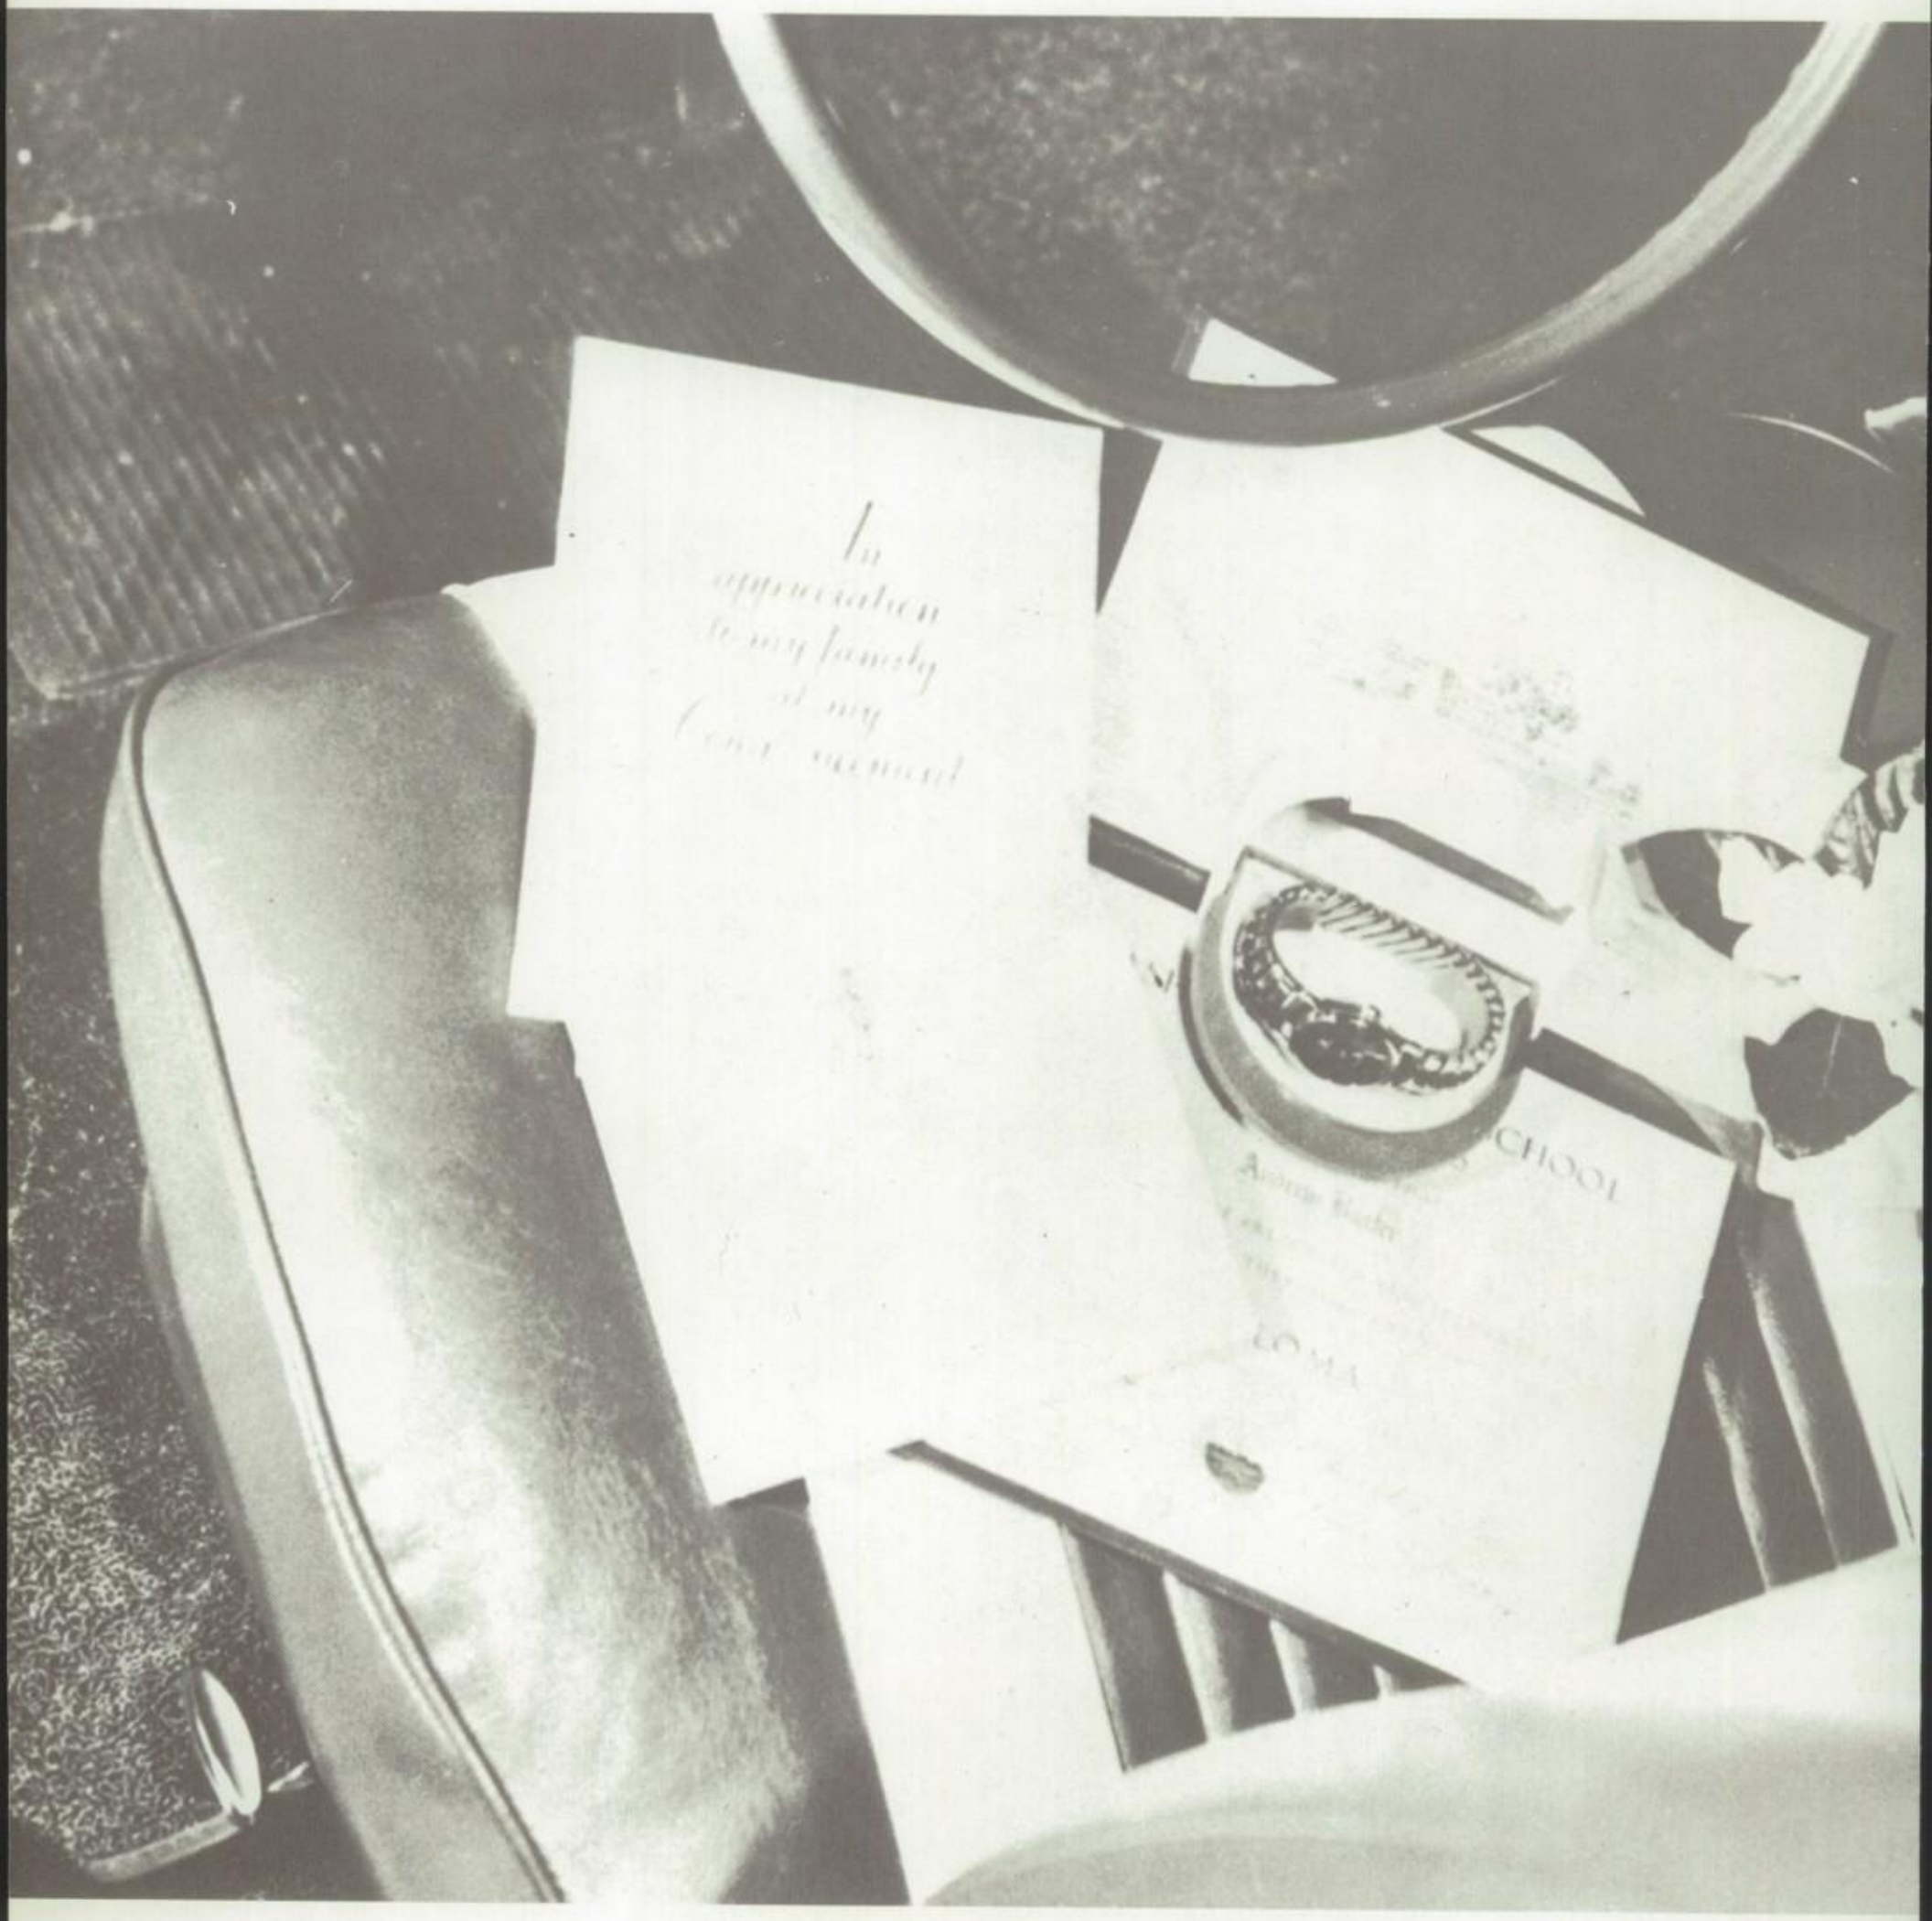


Throughout twenty-seven years of teaching, Mr. Moore has contributed to the growth of the vocational student at Phoenixville Area High School. He has taken a sincere interest in each individual and has given him the encouragement and inspiration to reach his goal.

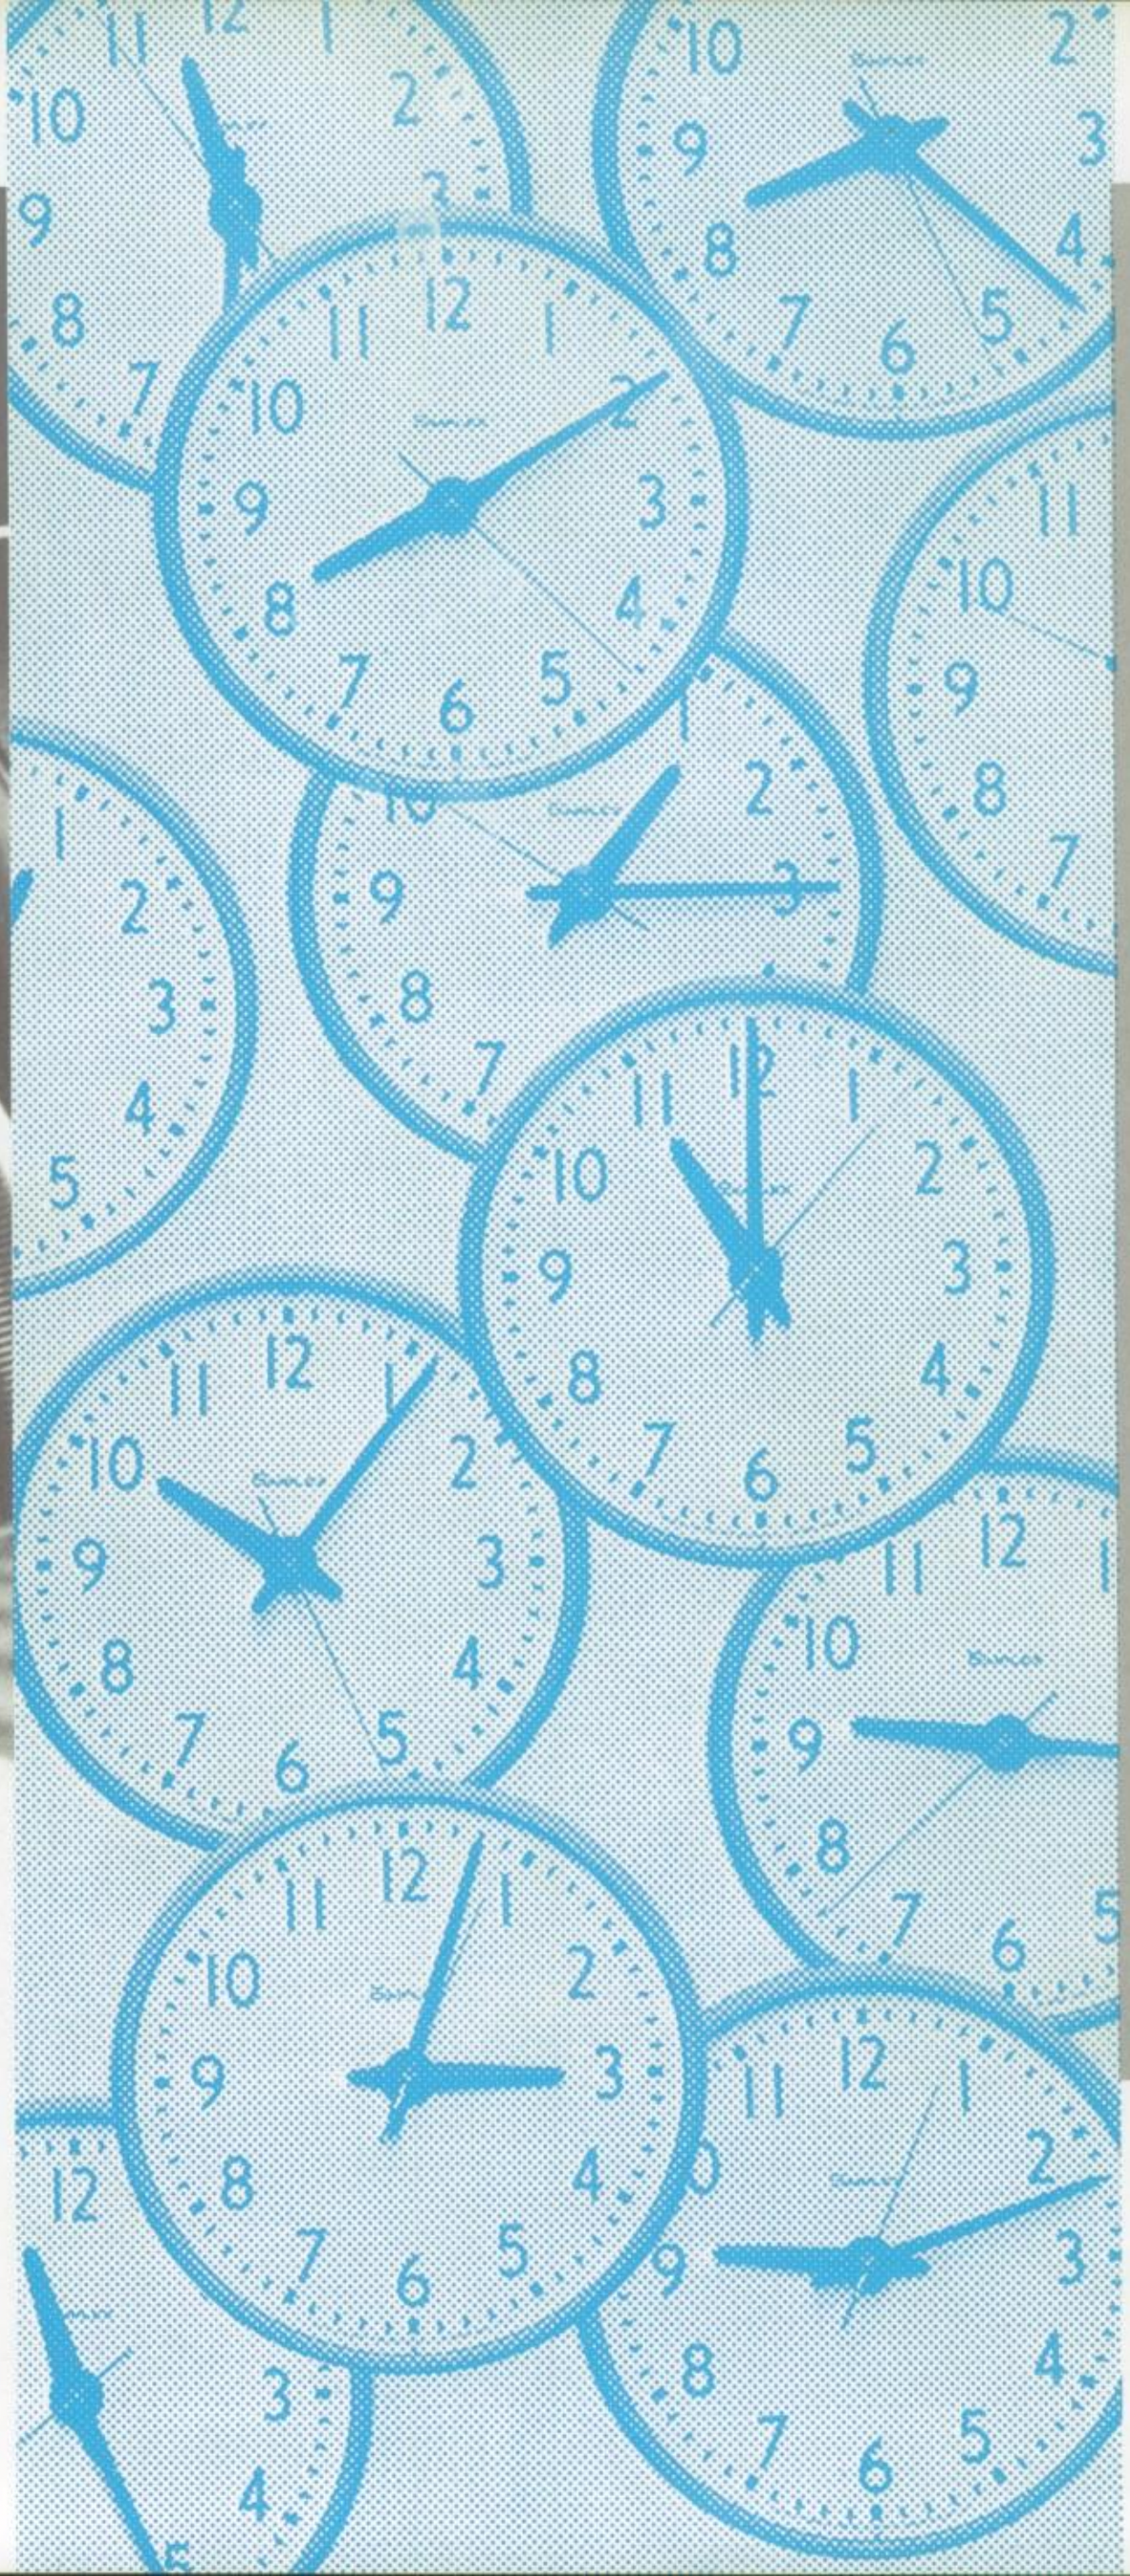
Besides his classroom responsibilities, Mr. Moore has also taken a heart-felt interest in student activities. He has given his time unselfishly to booster school spirit by promoting the sale of tickets to all athletic events.

In appreciation of this unfailing helpfulness and sincerity, the Class of 1966 dedicates this book of memories and hopes to Mr. Howard T. Moore.





Seniors



Senior Class Officers are Joe Hamelton, president; Holly Kinsey, treasurer; Etta Miller, secretary; Thom Fox, vice president.

Throughout our sophomore, junior and senior years at Phoenixville Area High School, we, the class of '66, have been guided and inspired through the efforts of our faculty advisers — Mr. Randall Beckman, Mrs. Deborah H. Francis and Mr. William Walck. Their guidance has helped us through magazine sales, class trips, dances, proms, and various other activities. They shared their time and energy unselfishly for the benefit of our class. The peak of achievement, which we hope to obtain in time, is clearly distinguished by the same qualities which these three leaders have. These qualities which they possess in enormous amounts are unsellishness, service and leadership.

Thus, the senior class wishes to express their sincere thanks to Mr. Beckman, Mrs. Francis and Mr. Walck for the special interest which they have shown to us.

The Senior Class of Phoenixville Area High School
announces its Commencement Exercises
Tuesday evening, June fourteenth, Nineteen hundred and sixty-six
Six thirty o'clock, School Campus.

Yes . . . every good thing has a climax . . . yet every climax has a beginning. The span of time between January 1, 1948, and December 31, 1966, marks the initial appearances of the individuals who compose the 1966 class of Phoenixville Area High School. As each day progressed, so did the characters of these two hundred and seventy-seven.

From 1964 to 1966 two hundred and seventy-seven individual characters fused into one single character which furthered the progress of Phoenixville Area High School. In September, 1964, the doors were opened wide to the anxious, yet confused, novices. As sophomores they were subject to the juniors and seniors, upon whom most of the responsibility and leadership was placed. The nomination and election of class officers was held during the third week of school. Joe Hamelton, president; Thom Fox, vice-president; Martie Zamlynski, secretary; and Etta Miller, treasurer were chosen to lead these ambitious students during their first of three years of study. A trip to the Freedom's Foundation proved to be both exciting and interesting to the sophomores. but the highlight of the year was the ordering of class rings in May. Later this same month, elections for junior class officers were conducted under the supervision of the faculty advisers, Miss Marlene Robinette, Mr. Vincent Daher, and Mrs. Deborah Francis.

Newly elected officers Joe Hamelton, president; Thom Fox, vice-president; Holly Kinsey, secretary; and Kathy Rossiter, treasurer guided the juniors as they started their second year. The task of raising funds for the class treasury was begun with the traditional magazine campaign. The success of this project was realized when the senior class held a coke for the victorious juniors. As the year progressed more responsibility was given to the class. The arrival of the class rings in October proved to be a day full of excitement. Some students fasted from lunch, patiently waiting in line to get the prized mark of distinction. By 3:05 P.M. each of the two hundred and seventy-seven was now wearing the school seal on his finger. Another fund-raising project was a dance sponsored by the class. It proved to be a success both monetarily and socially. A convention and an election were held to select the student council president. This future senior was chosen to lead not only the seniors, but also the juniors and sophomores. The returns came in and Jack Griffith was congratulated on his victory. Another election — that of class officers — was held in the busy month of May. Why was it busy? The grand finale of the year was but one month away and the time had come for activities to begin. "Pink Champagne" was chosen as the theme for the Junior-Senior Prom. With diligent assistance of the class advisers, Mrs. Deborah Francis, Mr. William R. Walck, and Mr. Randall Beckman, everyone was in a champagne mood, bubbling and effervescent on the night of June fourth. Linda Maylen and Bob Szabo reigned as queen and the king of the successful project of the Junior Class. Following the activities in the appropriately decorated gymnasium was a Post Prom Party held in the Number One Fire Hall sponsored by the junior parents.

September, 1965 marked the beginning of "their year." The two hundred and seventy-seven now had to set an example for the six hundred underclassmen. Leadership and responsibility were totally in their hands. Again the wary footsteps of these hard-working young adults were guided by Mrs. Francis, Mr. Walck, and Mr. Beckman. The annual magazine campaign was an example of these students' diligence. A total of $4169.57 was raised by the seniors.

In November the Senior Class Play was held. Two one act plays were performed to a full house both nights. Miss Linda Kolts directed "If Men Played Cards as Women Do" and "The Final Dress Rehearsal." The ACES Program was presented in January. The students, given guided tours of various factories, enjoyed the opportunity to see how a small part of America is run.

January thirty-first marked the first big step toward graduation. Each of the two hundred and seventy-seven was measured for his cap and gown.

Late in January the class supported the Key Club Prom, which proved to be a gala event. May was a busy month for all, but especially for the class officers. President Joe Hamelton, Vice-President Thom Fox, Secretary Etta Miller, and Treasurer Holly Kinsey were constantly rushing up and down the crowded halls, putting the finishing touches to such important events as the All Sports Banquet, the Senior Class Trip.

The most magnificent weekend of the month was that of May thirteenth and fourteenth. The Junior-Senior Prom and the Post Prom Party were held. The Seniors were grateful to the Juniors for the enjoyable evening they had prepared. The fun had begun, but the work was yet to be completed.

Senior exams were taken starting June sixth. As the last exam was taken each senior said good-bye to the walls which gave him knowledge and understanding. On Sunday, June twelfth Baccalaureate Services were held. These were followed by the inevitable, annual commencement exercises. As the graduates sang the Alma Mater they could visualize many happy days at Phoenixville Area High School, but only through tear-filled eyes.

When at last their time was over, and the last exam was passed, the doors closed behind each senior's farewell to teachers, school, and class. Each silently pledged himself to take school-day victories into the world's grim fight, for the vision will remain in their memory of the Purple and the White.

Yes . . . the vision still shall be in their memory, but most apparent will be the goals they attained while defending the Purple and the White. The time had come for two hundred and seventy-seven seniors to bid farewell to their Alma Mater — happy, yet reluctant.

Those students planning to enter college usually pursue the courses offered in the Academic Curriculum. While being prepared for college, the students receive chances to develop their scholastic skills and are prepared to face life as mature and well-rounded individuals.

It is the purpose of the English Department to teach students the proper techniques in writing and in speaking so that they will be able to express themselves in their later lives. It also tries to give the student a cultural background through literature.

The History Department has a course in Problems of Democracy as its offering, the purpose of which is to acquaint the senior with a better understanding of how his country is run and of the problems involved in running it. The Mathematics Department tries to show the student the ever increasing role that numbers and mathematical concepts play in today's world.

The Science Department is concerned with giving the student a glimpse of the modern developments of our era. A study of the basic concepts which made these developments possible allow the students to learn the "hows" and "whys" of these advances.

The Language Department offers three possible fields of study consisting of Latin, Spanish, and French. Each language enables the student to acquire a certain amount of skill in speaking and reading in the foreign tongue of his choice.

These courses provide an adequate foundation for college but most of all they enable the student to learn how he will fit into his society.

Vocational Curriculum

Good education must develop citizens who work as well as play; produce as well as consume; create as well as appreciate. Vocational education is playing a major role in reaching these objectives.

Vocational education in the high schools is functioning in two important ways. It makes secondary school more attractive and meaningful for a larger number of youth. At the same time, vocational education creates the basic skills and technical knowledge necessary to increase the productive capacity of workers, upon which depends America's productive might and national strength.

The primary purpose of vocational education is to prepare the student for useful employment upon graduation. It gives purpose and meaning to education by relating school work to a specific occupational goal. Vocational education means more than training for specific job skills — it develops abilities, understanding, attitudes, working habits, and appreciations which contribute to a satisfying and productive life.

Vocational education is not a subject — it is a well-rounded program of studies aimed at developing competent workers. The goal of vocational education is a citizen who is competent economically, socially, emotionally, physically, and civicly.

Business Education Curriculum

The primary objective of the Business Education Curriculum is to prepare young men and women for the higher goals in the business field. The well-rounded subjects broaden the knowledge needed to maintain a high-paying position in the office world. These subjects include stenography, bookkeeping, typing, transcription, consumer education, and office practice.

Extra-curricular activities invite many interests of ambitious students. Student secretaries not only help the faculty but also gain practical experience and a taste of office life.

The business staff at PAHS tries to broaden the students potentials in order that they may handle their positions with skill and accuracy. Of course the classroom is not the only place a student gains knowledge of the business career. On the job training is offered to most ambitious students who will be our future secretaries.

Upon completion of this course, one goes out into the world a well-informed individual.

Related Curriculum

The courses of band, chorus, home economics, drivers' education, physical education, and art are offered at PAHS to enable the individual to be exposed to the following invaluable areas.

Band students diligently practice so they may become adept to a musical instrument. Music appreciation and understanding are instilled among chorus students.

The arts of making clothes and keeping a home are acquired by both future housewives and career girls in PAHS home economic classes.

Training in drivers' education has proven to be very valuable in teaching Phoenixville's future drivers the proper techniques of handling a car on today's highways.

Body co-ordination and physical fitness is the primary objective of the Physical Education Department.

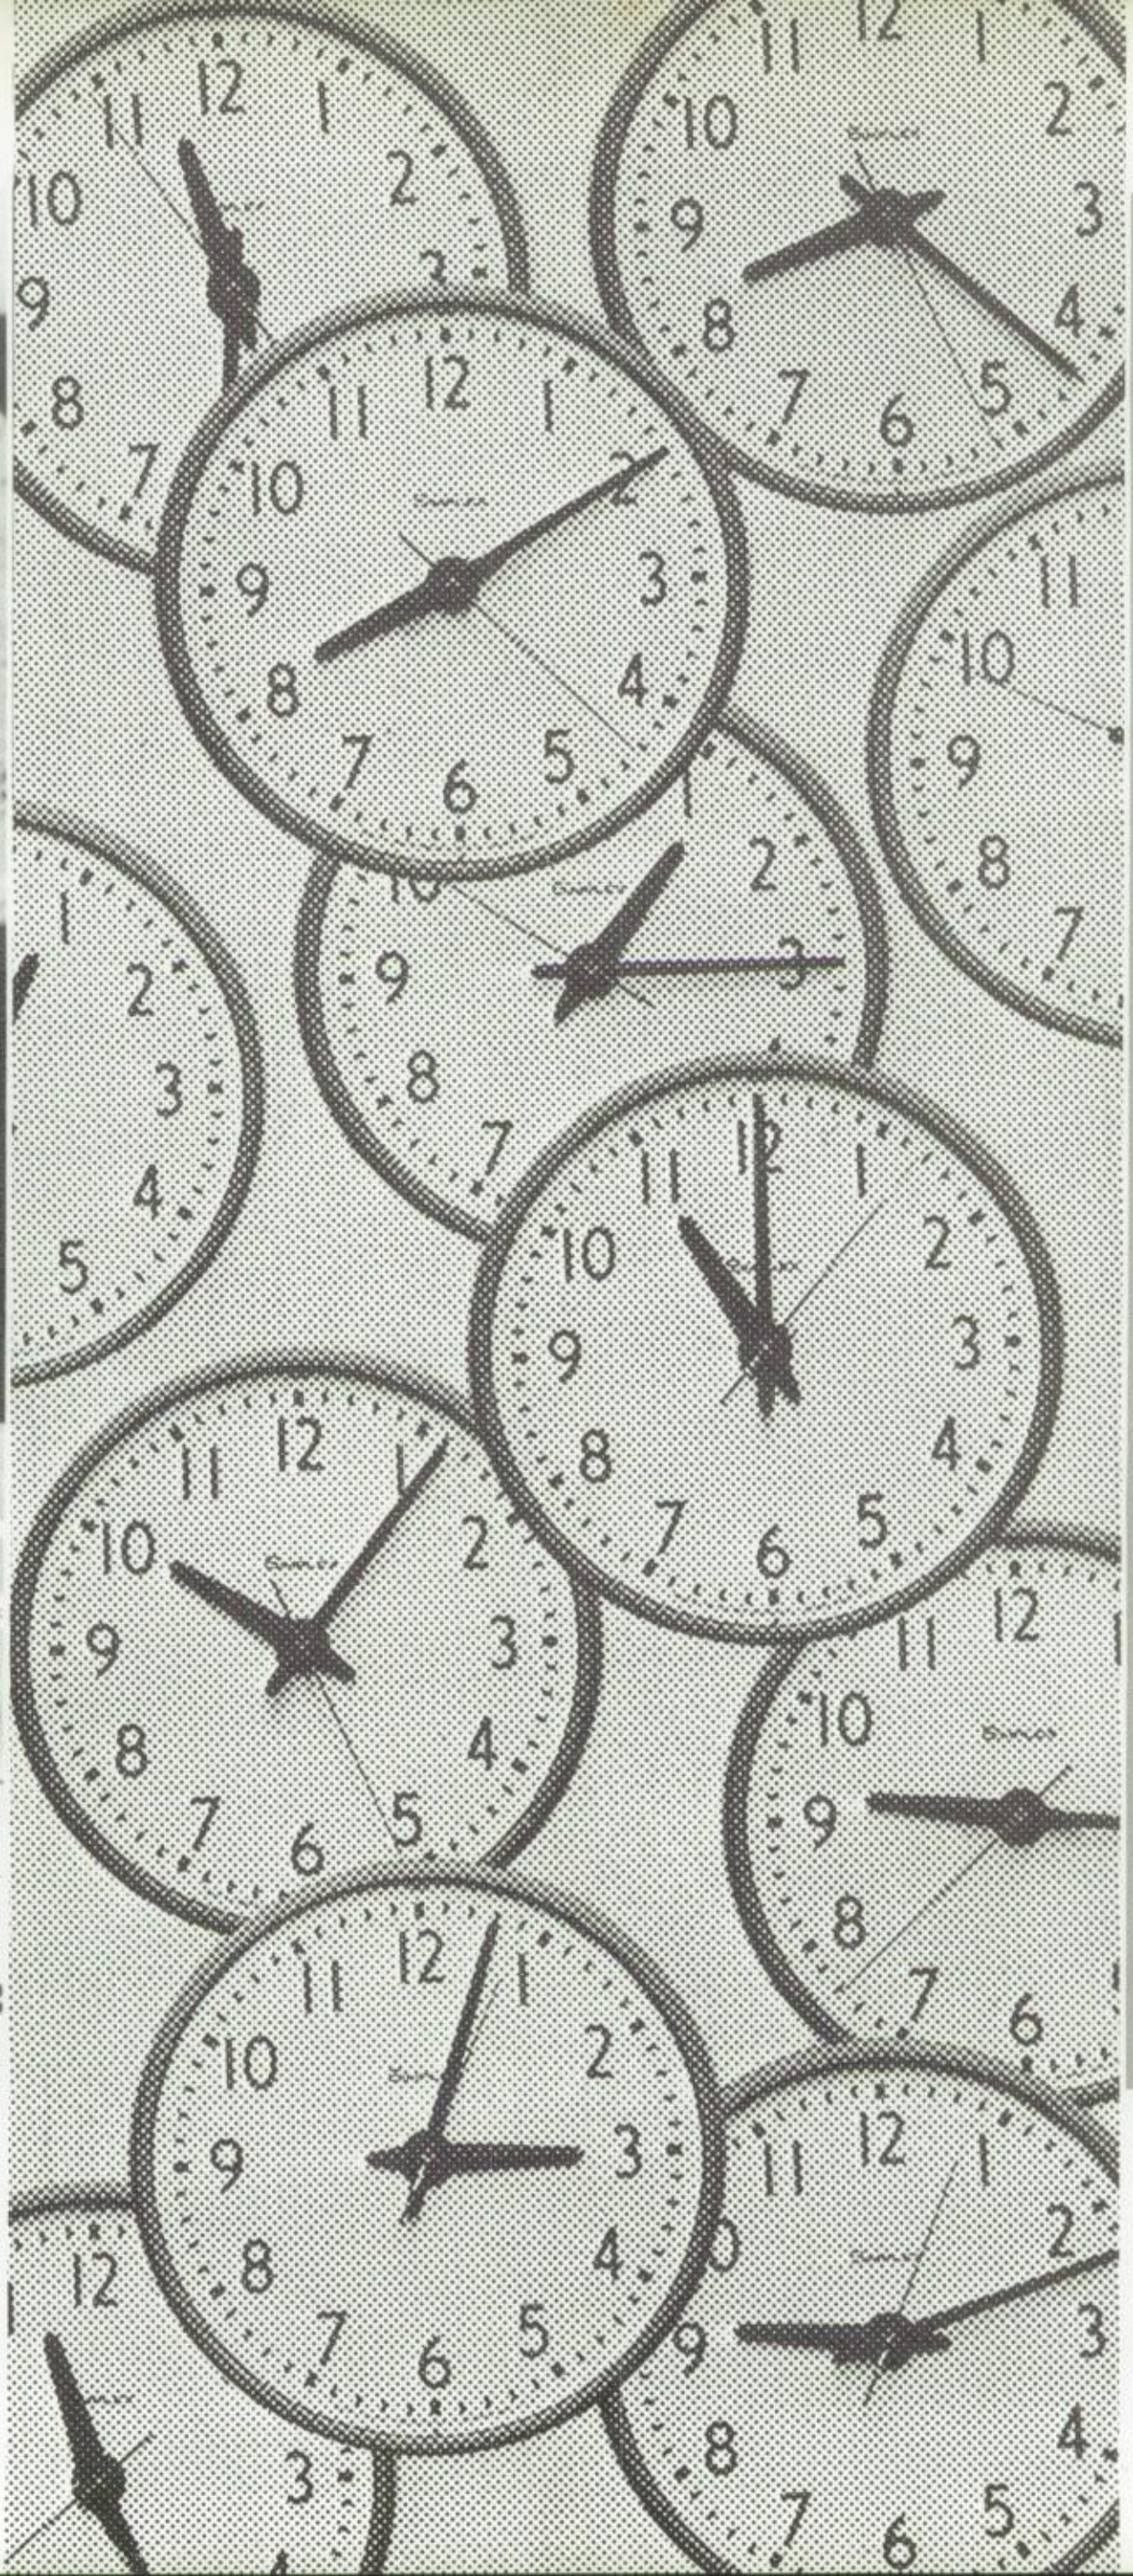
Underclassmen



The Class of '67

As time brings the Class of '66 towards graduation, we are aware of the responsibility, influence, and prestige they assumed throughout their school career. The Class of '67 will continue to uphold our status and fulfill obligations held in clubs, sports, curriculum, and government.

The challenge to accomplish goals set by the students will be met by class officers and the student body. They have shown that responsibility comes easy to them by their efforts in the magazine campaign and in the Junior-Senior Prom.

As the months speed by, their horizons will broaden and with each day's experience they will gain knowledge, maturity, and self-development to carry them through their senior year.

We feel certain that the Class of '67 will successfully meet the challenge and will continue to uphold the traditions of the senior class.

Junior class advisors are Miss Rupert and Mr. Mayberry.

As sophomores we have many hurdles to climb before we are ready to assume the responsibilities of upperclassmen. For now we can watch the upperclassmen in their various roles, but our time is soon to come. School days go all too quickly, and soon we will assume our roles as seniors. We will advance, plan and dream together and thus we will succeed.

Cafeteria Staff — Custodians

The PAHS cafeteria staff has been called upon this year to serve more students than ever.

The women employed in the cafeteria work daily to distribute lunches to students and teachers who eat during one of the three lunch periods.

The custodians and matron are truly a vital part of our school. The cleanliness of our classrooms, hallways and cafeteria is adequately accomplished as only a small portion of the daily work of these men and women who are not well known to the student body.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

In April 1925, the 379th chapter of the National Honor Society was established at PAHS. Each year, from the first one-third of their respective classes, five percent of the junior class and ten percent of the seniors are selected by the principal with the aid of a council of faculty members.

The objects of this society are to develop competent leaders, to encourage an inspiration to be good students and to cultivate an enthusiasm to serve willing and faithfully, as well as to stimulate the growth of more admirable character.

Chess Club

Under the guidance of Miss Judith A. Fox the Chess Club continues to fulfill the anxieties of PAHS chess buffs.

Learning the fundamentals of chess requires a great deal of patience and concentration. The actual playing of the game is a mental challenge to the intellectual club members. During activities periods these members plan their strategy, and maneuver their knights in an effort to attain an ultimate goal — checkmate!

The Interact Club sponsored by the Rotary Club of Phoenixville has just completed its first year of service at PAHS. Under the direction of Mrs. Albert Dazley the club fulfills many service projects for both the school and community.

This year the club has sponsored a tutoring service as well as a vocational guidance center. They have aided in the hospital fund campaign and have sponsored a swap-shop at the school.

The club holds weekly meetings at which national and international service projects are planned. In addition to community service, the club also participates in district projects such as sending paint for schools in underdeveloped countries. Also, annually, representatives are sent to district meetings to elect the district governor and to vote on resolution and service projects.

International Club

This year the American Field Service has been changed to the International Club. Under the AFS, Lena Lalôr, this year's foreign exchange student from Brazil, was brought to PAHS as were Emilio Laffredo and Charo Naranjo in the past two years. This organization offers the opportunity for foreign students to observe life in a typical American school.

The International Club, under the direction of Miss Jeanette Jerrehian, is participating in the "Experiment in International Living," which gives us the opportunity to send a PAHS student abroad for a summer or the school year. Four juniors and seniors have entered the program.

To raise money for their goal, the International Club sold Phantom pins at football games and sponsored a Rock 'n Roll Show.

Band

The Phoenixville Area High School Band under the direction of Mr. William R. Walck can be heard practicing daily in the band room.

During the football season the marching unit is headed by Barbara Alt. The color guard composed entirely of seniors, contains two sword bearers, two banner carriers and seven flag carriers. With the addition of the George Washington Flag, it is the largest color guard PAHS has had.

The Drill Team captained by Josie Giampietro has done an excellent job in drilling at our football games. This year there were four seniors in the Drill Team.

Barbara Powell, head majorette and also a senior, headed the majorettes. The girls, through continuous practice perfected their routines which were performed at the football games.

Special thanks goes to Mrs. Walck who spent all of her spare time in the afternoons helping the band front perfect the routines which they performed on the football field.

Through the selling of band calendars and chocolate candy bars, the band planned a trip to Atlantic City.

Football

The 1965 season proved to be a rough one for the Phantoms. Having a relatively inexperienced squad, the Paul Tomko guided crew ended the season with a 4-5-1 record overall and a 3-4-1 log in the rugged ChesMont League.

In non-league play, the Phantoms dropped their opener to talented group of footballers from Upper Merion. However, the Phantoms came back in their second contest to overpower the Falcons of Pottsgrove 14-0.

The Phantoms provided their fans with many thrills. At Spring-Ford the Phoenix crew trailed 7-0 with 17 seconds remaining. A spectacular pass from Gotwals to Johnson which covered 80 yards saved the game for Phoenix. The PAHS lads also scared League Champion West Chester. Leading 7-6 with 1:14 left to play, a blocked punt spelled defeat for the Phantom forces.

Phoenixville scored 120 points in ten games as opposed to their opponents' 125.

Spirited play and desire netted the following team members berths on the Coaches' All ChesMont Squad — Marshall Burton '66, Andre Thorton '67, Paul Karkoska '67, Al Wolski '67, Ernie Cook '67, Jim Holl '67, and James Johnson '67. A group of area sports writers also choose an All ChesMont Team each year. Thomas Hyden '66, Ed Hendricks '66, and Thomas Fox '66 were selected for this contingent.

Coaches for the football team are Mr. H. Tomko, Mr. Dazley, Mr. Craig, Mr. P. Tomko, head coach, Mr. Puhl.

Time is infinite. The wide expanse of opportunities confronting the youth of today is immeasurable also. Our desires will become realities only when we learn to take advantage of these benefits in meeting the challenges of tomorrow. We have been preparing for the future throughout our high school years. The varied curricula and extra-curricula programs, athletic activities, social affairs and scholastic guidance at P.A.H.S. have provided a means to achieve these goals.

In order to fulfill these ideals, we must continue to seek new horizons. The foundation for creativity and initiative, laid in school, has served to make us aware of the ever-changing, modern world in which we live. Thus, the young adult of this era is constantly pursuing new and revolutionary ideas.

In doing so, the student is developing those assets in character which will make him a success when faced with the responsibilities of life.

Ultimately, the mature teen, through experience of the past, is able to cope with the demands of the competitive, progressive world which lies ahead.

What Is Time? The Shadow on the Dial,

The Striking of the Clock,

The Running of the Sand, Day and Night,

Summer and Winter, Months, Years,

Centuries, — These Are but Arbitrary and Outward Signs,

The Measure of Time, not Time Itself.

Time Is the Life of the Soul.

— Longfellow
